LIVING ROOMS

Place for rest & chill

An ideal size for the formal living room is often dictated on how you want to plan the sitting locations. Typically, my clients will ask for three sofas in a 'courtyard' arrangement facing the fireplace. In addition to this, however, they like the furniture to be within the room and not up against the wall.

On this basis, a living room/space of around 7.6×6.1m (46.36m²) seems to work as an optimum when I am designing for clients. This is based on a 'master' sofa of a typical size of 2.4×0.9m and two secondary sofas measuring approximately 2×0.9m.

Suggested size: Up to 46.36m² (based on a courtyard arrangement of three sofas, including a 'master' sofa)

SPACIOUS & COMFY

Rest, Kitchen, Terrace & Outdoor Pool

Kitchen: If you fancy a square kitchen with three sides of units/worktops and a central island, then I would suggest an ideal size of around 4.8×4.2m (20.16m²). This is calculated across the width as 60cm unit/1.2m passing space/1.2m central island/1.2m passing space/60cm unit, which in turn equates to 4.8m. Suggested sizes: Kitchen 20.16m², Breakfast area 9m², Breakfast area with seating 18-30m²

Dining Room: If you plan on a separate dining room, this is often dictated by an existing table you might have. In addition to the table dimensions, I would suggest a minimum of 1m of circulation space around the table but ideally more like 2m, certainly on at least two sides.

Pool size 16×32 feet

Depth 3.5' - 5'

Tiling 1st Class Italian tiling

Jump platform Yes

Covering Robelle cover

Railing Chrome

WATER PLAY

<> Bedrooms: are dictated by the size of the bed and also the functionality of the bedroom itself. The master bedroom is likely to feature either a king size bed (1.5x2m) or a super king size bed (1.8x2m) plus any wardrobe space. Therefore, an optimum size for a master bedroom would be around 4x4m up to around 4.5×4.5m (20.25m²). This would allow enough space around the bed and also room for a sitting and/or dressing area. If you plan on having a dressing room separate from the bedroom then I would allow a space of around 1.8×1.8m as a minimum beyond the bedroom itself.
